FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Hook Up Table Series Launches February 9, 2022

New collection of workspace tables are easy to move, cluster and even hook together while also offering single use and personal privacy options.

(TORONTO, ONTARIO – February 9, 2022) – As organizations everywhere adjust to a hybrid working environment, they're increasingly seeking furniture solutions that easily adapt to the ebb and flow of employees in the office space. Three H is meeting this need head on with the release of Hook Up, a collection of smartly designed tables that address the changing realities of office work.

Hook Up is built for agility. Every table and privacy panel connects through a rail, making it a snap to reconfigure workspaces by hooking them together or breaking them apart on the fly. Privacy panels can be used to block out visual distractions or provide a higher degree of personal protection. Custom accessories—including letter trays and boxes, various sizes of planters, cup holders and power receptacles—also hook on and off in real time, with no special tools or installation required.

Designed in partnership with Jonathan Sabine and Jessica Nakanishi of Toronto-based design firm MSDS Studio, the Hook Up collection provides elegantly functional work areas to comfortably accommodate today's nomadic staff, whether they're working permanently in office or only coming in a few days a week.

"We designed Hook Up with simplicity and adaptability top of mind," said Jonathan Sabine, Principal at MSDS Studio. "The easy reconfigurability, combined with soft corners and unexpected detailing, gives the freedom to create beautifully functional workspaces that can instantly accommodate individuals and teams on the move."

"The pandemic has changed the way we work forever," said Gary Hierlihy, VP Sales & Marketing and Design Director at Three H. "Flexible in-office attendance and increasing reliance on collaboration and productivity tools, like Zoom and metaverse tech, means fewer private offices and dedicated spaces. We set out to deliver a collection of tables for office use that are as flexible as today's modern worker needs to be and Hook Up more than delivers."

Hook Up won the prestigious HiP award from Interior Design magazine when it was introduced at NeoCon in the Fall of 2021. Tables in the Hook Up collection cover a range of working spaces, including lounge/meeting, team/meeting, flexible closed and open spaces, multifunctional/ collaborative meetings and training rooms. Hook Up is Canadian made and uses only locally sourced materials.
